

Low-Tech, High Performance Building Envelopes - Hot Climate.

April 24th 2024 | 2:00-4:00 pm EST

Join us for a discussion on low-tech, high performance buildings in developing countries. Participating in this symposium provides an excellent opportunity to showcase your expertise and thought leadership in vernacular architecture and thermal comfort. Engage with industry peers, professionals, and academics interested in sustainable design practices.

SPEAKERS

AHMED A. HASSAN

PhD. in Architecture, Senior Lecturer in Architecture Technology, Department of Design & The Built Environment. University of Huddersfield, UK

RAUL PANTALEO

Co-founder and Senior Partner in TAM Associate Architecture in Venice, Italy. Adjunct Professor, University of Trieste, Italy

AHMED OSMAN IBRAHIM

PhD. in Architecture, Professor Associate Department of Architecture Engineering, Hail University, Saudi Arabia.

ORGANIZERS

Musaab Elhassan

Ph.D Candidate
CABE, Thomas Jefferson University

Edgar Stach

AIA/IA, R
Director of Institute of Smart and healthy Cities,
Professor of Architecture,
Thomas Jefferson University

Sponsored By
Jefferson Institute for Smart and Health Cities

For Details Email To: musaab.elhassan@students.jefferson.edu

REGISTER HERE